

Summer Programs at the Historical Society of Princeton

Looking for a fun, educational and local experience this summer? HSP invites children and their families to explore Princeton's rich history in new and engaging ways!

WHAT IS WORK?

-A hands-on gallery tour for children-

What do grownups do all day long? How do you become a cook, engineer, or journalist? Is play a kind of work? HSP's Curator of Education Jennifer Jang addresses these questions through an interactive gallery tour for children. This special program is offered in conjunction with HSP's summer exhibition, The Recession Hits Home: Unemployment in Central New Jersey, on view July 20–August 22, 2010.

Cost: $3/child

Length: 60 minutes

Ages 5-12

Picturing Princeton

-A walking tour for children-

What better way to celebrate summer than by taking a fun summer stroll? Students will learn about Princeton's most striking local landmarks—architectural, natural, and sculptural—and create their own postcards to document how the town has changed over time. Postmark...Princeton!

Cost: $3/child

Length: 60 minutes

Ages 5-12

Summer programs are available on weekdays from July 20 – September 3, 2010.

Groups are limited to 25 children; children must be accompanied by chaperones.

Picturing Princeton tours will also be offered on Thursday, August 26 and Friday, September 3 at 10:00 a.m. To pre-register or to book a program please call 609.921.6748, x100 or email
